Senator Voorhees Attacks the Indian Bureau.

The Redskins Sall to Be Starved Into Armed Rebellion.

An interesting discussion took place on the subject of the threatened Indian war in consideration of the joint resonant Indian Indi by the Election Brit coming up as unifinished business.

Mr. Hoar said, in view of the fact that on reporting the bill at the close of the last session he had addressed the Senate, as unfinished business, the Elections Bill.

Mr. Turpie took the floor in opposition to the substitute measure. He said that it rested for its support on what was called the suppressed colored Republican vote in the South. In the whatever objections were made to the bili on the Democratic side.

Mr. Turpie thereupon opened the discussion in opposition.

Mr. Hawley, from the Committee on Military Affairs, reported and asked to have put upon its passage a joint resolution authorizing the Secretary of resolution authorizing the Secretary of War to issue arms and ammunition to War to issue arms and ammunition to the States of N sth and South Dakota. Mr. Mand roon moved to include the State. Nebraska.

Mr. Voorhees and that if the proposition were to issue 100,000 rations of food to the starving Indians it would be more consistent with Christian civilization. He ferred to the published statem of 65. Miles in an interview, the fine indians were driven to two for arvation and said Government to stand by and do nothing except furnish arms to the whites. The Indians had been suffering for years in silence. There was bloodinguitiness somewhere in connection with it. The hostilities into which the Indians of the Northwest were being starved would result not merely in the destruction of the lives of many Indians, but the lives of thousands of Indians, but the lives of thousands of American citizens and hundreds of American soldiers. That condition of things had been brought about by niggardliness, or a parsimonious and dis-honest policy. He knew not which policy had been pursued to take the lands of the Indians and not pay enough for them to keep the Indians from starving when disposed of.

Mr. Hawley spoke briefly, saying that he had no objection to the remarks of the Senator from Indiana, except V class dressmaker, late of New York, desires a few more engagements by the day, or will take a few more engagements by the day, or will take dresses at home. Address PRESSMAKER, 43 b. Angeles St. V for cash from 5 to 10 acres, with trees, or that they were perhaps a little exaggerated. the agreement embodied in the bill which was submitted to Congress by the President. The bill thus framed to the complete satisfaction of the Indians passed the Senate, but where it was now he did not know. He knew, the assurances given to the Indians by the commission.

He (Mr. Dawes) saw the Indian troubles with a full apprehension of the danger and of necessity of some present relief to bring about composure among the Indians, and extricate them from the lead of such bad indians as Sitting Bull and Red Cloud, who were bad and the curse of the tribes.

The amount purchased was 321,000 at $1.0595.

Mr. Taylor of Himois introduced in the House today a joint resolution requiring the Secretary of the Treasury to purchase, at the market price, not to exceed $1 for 371.25 grains pure silver, the 12,000,000 states, and hereafter to confine monthly purchases to the domestic product.

Mr. Voorhees "repelled the feeble attempt at a sneer," on the part of Mr. Dawes, and said that the latter knew pawes, and said that the latter knew the situation as well as he did, for Gen. Miles had told the public that the Indians had been made hostile, and preferred to die fighting than to die of starvation. These red men could enter the field with 6000 fighting men, armed, and with the advantage of a knowledge of the country. They could fight two American soldiers on terms of equality. He asked the gentleman from Massachusetts to state whether the Indians had enough to eat, whether Gen. Miles was right or wrong, and whether the Indians were being starved into belligerancy. Mr. Dawes said that there was great difficulty in dealing with those Indians who are rebellious. They have nothing to eat; they are away from their tepees; they belong to that class of Indians who never did a day's work in their lives.

Republican vote in the South. In the course of his remarks he said that in the Northern States, where all this outcry was made, the colored man had no more chance of preferment than a Roman Catholic had in New Hampshire a hundred years ago. The sup-pression of the colored vote in the South was the thing mani-festly in question, affirmed on one side and denied on the other, but the side and denied on the other, but the suppression of the colored voter of the North was a thing without question, actual, absolute, unconditional. The supremacy of the white race was not peculiar to any portion of the United States. South Carolina was not more completely under its sway than Pennsylvania. The man (especially the man of the White House) who sought to embroil the pair and black races for a purposity of an outrage tenfol of the man any of those he invented or described.

Wherever people of different races were living peacefully together under the same laws, members of the same body politic, without any other thought than that some must command and others obey, the race searches were living peacefully together under the same laws, members of the same body politic, without any other thought than that some must command and others obey, the race command and others obey, the race problem was being solved. The pur-pose of the National Election Bill was, so far as it is related to the South, to wreck and destroy this pending con-dition of inter-racial adjustment. It dition of inter-racial adjustment. It proposed not to maintain the will of the majority, but to overthrow it on the single issue of race; to make a majority of the black men because they are black, to establish a government of complexion, not of opinion. The purpose of the bill was that the law of the land must be suborned to the set en.nlty between the white and black man. Pass this bill and the right of the people to choose their representa-

PASSAIC (N. J.,) Dec. 3.—The Rettenhouse Manufacturing Mills have failed, with liabilities of $800,000. The assets will be somewhat less.

The failure was brought about by the embarrassment of other houses and the low prices prevailing in the wool market. The firm is one of the largest and The firm is one of the largest and best-known houses in the woolen trade in the country. It was organized in 1876 by Edward H. Ammidown, Charles H. Ammidown and S. A. Clark. William Barbour of the Barbour Flax Spinning Company has been appointed receiver, Selling agents of the Rittenhouse Company in New York are Ammidown & Smith. The head of this house is Edward H. Ammidown. It is reported that the importing and commission that the importing and commission firm and Ammidown personally are heavily involved in the failure of the Rittenhouse Company. The business of the manufacturing concern has been poor for a long time and the mills fately have been losing money steadily. THE NEW ASYLUM.

ISSUED A CALL. Railroad Officials Summoned to a Meeting by Mr. Huntington.

New York, Dec. 3.—[By the Associated Press.] C. P. Huntington, president of the Southern Pacific has issued a call for a meeting of ray or officials and bankers identified with railroad interests. He states that no agreement has been signed, and no information in regard to the purpose of the meeting is contained in the paper. It is simply a call for a meeting, nothing more. No meeting or conference has yet been held, and no result has been reached regarding the formation of the new association, although the street is flooded with schemes and agreements, which it is asserted have

WHY DID HE GO?

A St. Louis Merchant's Trip to the Post office, and the Result.

California's last sensation is beginning to ake hold of St. Louis. J. V. S. Barrett, the commission merchant of 122 and 124 North Commercial Street, was one of the first to test Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla in sick headaches. Its effect was such a gratifying surprise that he the effect was such a grading sarphise that he went over to the postoffice and told his friend, Thos. P. Culkin, the superintendent of the registry division, who was also worried with headaches, about it. The following letter details his friend's experience also:—

tails his friend's experience also:

— Postoffice, Sr. Louis, Feb. 20, 1890.

J. V. S. Barrett, Esq.:—

DEAR Sir: You ask me, Did I act on your advice? I did, and am glad to have to thank you for it. For years I have suffered from indigestion and headaches. Taking your advice, I purchased a bottle of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. Before I had inished the first bottle I could eat almost anything with impunity, and have been since rarely troubled with a headache of any kind, for which I give due credit to your advice and Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla.

Yours, etc.,

THE CITY COUNCIL. A Number of Veto Messages

THE OFFICIAL CANVASS TODAY

From the Mayor.

Notice of a Contest from the Ninth Ward - Resignation of the Sealer of Weights and Measures.

and Measures.

The City Council mat at 10:15 o'clock yesterday morning. The following council men were present at roll call: President Frankenfield, Councilmen Brown, Hamiton, Summerland, Van Dusen and Wirsching.

The Mayor's message, vetoing the demand of Justice Lockwood for salary was read. It has heretofore been printed in The Times. It was referred to the City Attorney.

A message from the Mayor, vetoing the the ordinance inproving Teed street was referred to the Board of Public Works, as was also His Honor's message vetoing the ordinance for the improvement of San Fernando street.

A message vetoing the ordinance providing for the eementing of reservoirs holding water used for domestic purposes, was referred to the Board of Public Works.

The message vetoing the ordinance changing the names of certain streets was, on motion of Councilman Brown, passed, notwithstanding the Mayor's objection.

At the suggestion of the president, the regular order of business was suspended, and it was decided to canvass the voice cast at the city election on Monday.

J. Marion Brooks, Esq., was permitted to address the Council briefly at this juncture. He said that there had been certain irregularities in the returns from the Ninth Ward, which would affect the result as far as the election of a councilman was concerned. Mr. Brooks stated that he represented Mr. Cobb, who proposed to contest the seat of the Council to postpone the canvass of the vote of the Ninth Ward until after noon.

Gen. Mansfield was then recalled and testified positively that he had never struck White: that he had received two blows, from White, when, "in the language of Gen. Grant, he had moved upon his works, and gathered him in." The general said that he had lived sixty-five years, and had never struck a man or been struck himself until this time, and that Mr. White's statement was utterly faise, and he (White) knew it to be faise. Mr. Duniap was also recalled and briefly testified as to Gen. Mansfield's manner, saying that he was very composed and spoke in a low tone when he addressed Mr. White.

This closed the testimony, and after a brief argument by Deputy District Attorney Phibbs and a lengthy taik by Mr. White the case was given to the jury, who retired, and, after being out an hour or two, reported that they could not agree and were discharged.

THE RAILROADS.

The Great Consolidation Scheme Under Way.

SOME SIGNIFICANT INDICATIONS

The Full Extent of the Combine Still a Mystery-One Theory of Why It Was Brought About.

It is very evident that the great railroad consolidation scheme has been entered into, but the magnitude of the business is yet a mystery, and probably will be until the meeting of the Santa Fé directors in May next, when all of the big railroad men are to be present and discuss the future move-ments of the combination. The first indications that the new order of things is about to go into effect has just croped out. Work on new roads and trunk lines all over the country has been stopped. Yesterday quite a number of men, who have been working on the Atlantic and Pacific extension from Mojave to San Fran-cisco, reached this city. They report that work has been declared off for an indefinite work has been declared off for an indefinite period, and the chief engineers informed the men that they did not believe it would ever be taken up again.

Work on this extension has been progressing rapidly, and it is a weik-known fact that the Santa Fé people expected to reach San Francisco early in 1892. The San Francisco people have offered them strong inducements to extend the Santa Fé system to the bay, and it will be a hard blow to the metropolis of the North when it is learned that this road may never be built.

According to an Associated Press dispatch, President Huntington has checked all work on his lines, and proposed lines, which shows that the managers of the combination intend to make the old roads do all the work for some time to come.

It is not known at present what effect this new order of things will have on the Terminal road, but if it is a Union Pacific scheme, as has been given out by the local managers, it is possible that Mr. Gould will put his foot down on it. General Manager T. B. Burnett is now East, and it may be that he is consulting Mr. Gould and the St. Louis stockholders as to what they shall do. Work on the Milford end of the line has been stopped, and no one knows when it will be taken up again.

saying that he had a case in court that needed attention. Mr. Brooks also asked that all outsiders, and especially reporters, be excluded from the courtroom during the progress of the trial, saying that there might be developments that they did not care to be made public. Justice Owens granted the continuance, but declined to rule on the proposition to exclude spectators. managers of the labor organizations, who are foreigners in very many cases, have formed themselves into committees of inspection, or whatever they may be called, and they have resorted to the practice of making monthly visits to railroad officials, in numerous cases, for the purpose they say, of "talking things over for the good of the company." Their mission is reality that of sples, and whenever they find an opportunity for a kick for higher wages, or a chance to demand shorter hours, they are not at all backward about awains for what they will be a company to the knowing ones, stand this kind of this much longer. For several years past they have been talking about closing down the roads, but while they are managed by so many, it would be next to impossible to carry out this scheme; but if Messrs. Gould and Huntington have the general control of every important road in the country, they can more easily protect the interests of the stockholders, or, failing, use their power to shut down; and when the men find that they are thrown out of employment for several years, with no prospect of anything to do, they will have the good sense to decide to let the owners conduct the roads to suit themselves. It is very positively urged, anyway, that capital cannot stand the inroads that organized labor is now making on it more than a few years longer. These are ideas gathered in railroad circles, and are printed for what they are worth.

Sound Business Conditions. From "Over Production in Securities," by Krastus Wiman in the North American Review for December.1

With regard to the condition of business throughout the United States, notwithstanding the clouds that lower over the commercial horizon, and the dangers which may flow from disturbances in Great Britain, this may with truth be said, that, so far as the country itself is concerned, there never has been a period in its history when has been a period in its history when fewer disturbing elements were present to affect the healthfulness of its trade. The enormous extent of the transactions consummated, as shown by the clearing-house returns; the great volume of internal commerce, as shown by the increased railway and lake tonnage; the rapid development of natural resources; the creation of wealth as illustrated by the 8,000,000 bales of cotton produced; the variety and excellence of the crops; the output of iron, oil and coal—all point to a condition in which if safety does not reside, there is no safety elsewhere in the world.

Something Better Than a Dowry.

[Mrs. Amelia E. Barr, in the North American Review for December.]

Dowry is an antiquated provision for Dowry is an antiquated provision for daughters, behind the genius of the age, incompatible with the dignity of American men and the intelligence and freedom of American women. Besides, there are very likely to be two, three, four or more daughters in a house; how could a man of moderate means save for all of them? And what would become of the sous? The father who gives his children a loving, sensible mother, who provides them with a comfortable home, and who educates fully all their special faculties, and teaches them the cunning in their ten fingers, dowers his daughters far betthan if he gave them money. He has funded for them a provision that neither a bad husband nor an evil fate can squander. He has done his full duty, and every good girl will thank-fully so accept it.

They Were Turned Over as Evidence in the Cohn Case and Are Sald to Have Dis-

A sensational story was afloat yesterday to the effect that all of the forged county warrants in the Edelman case, some forty in number, had mysteriously disappeared, and could not be found. When the criminal case against Henry Edelman, in Judge Wade's court, resulted in a mistrial, the jury failing to agree, a civil suit was comnenced before Judge Van Dyke against L. B. Cohn, the pawnbroker who cashed the fraudulent warrants, and a relative of Edelman, for the recovery of the money, something over $2200. The warrants were turned over to be used as evidence in the civil suit, which was concluded several

One day, however, he concluded to take his wife out to see a game. Both were interested. The pitchers were being hit hard, there were many long flies caught and they enjoyed it. Finally, however, an idea occurred to Mrs. Sawyer.

"Senator," she said, "that is not fair; they put only three men away out in the field and let all the rest stand around the diamond. They make these three men work too hard. You must see the manager and tell him to scatter his men out." The senator thought her idea excellent, and the next day he hunted up the manager. "You seem to win all right," said he, "but I don't like the way you place your men. I want you after this to scatter them out more. Put more in the outfield, and don't have them all standing about the pitcher."-

Sporting Life. Stonewall Jackson's Death.

Historians always stop to describe the dying of Wolfe and Montcalm, the two opposing commanders in the battle of opposing commanders in the battle of Quebec. But their deaths were simply heroic compared with the Christian death of Stonewall Jackson.

About 1:30 on the day of his death he was told that he had about two hours to live, and he answered feebly but firmly, "Very good; it is all right.

A few mements before he died he cried out in his delirium: "Order A. P. Hill to prepare for action. Pass the infantry to the front rapidly. Tell Maj. Hawks"— then stopped, leaving the sentence unfinished.

Presently a smile of ineffable sweet-ness spread itself over his pale face and then he said quietly and with an ex-pression of relief: "Let us cross over the river and rest under the shade of the trees." And then, without pain or the least struggle, his spirit passed.—Phila-

A Man Deliberately Cuts Off His Tongue.

NO CAUSE FOR THE RASH ACT

sessed of Ample Means-He Declines to Make Any Explanations.

One of the strangest things that ever happened in this city, occurred last Sunday morning in the lodging-house on the corner of Broadway and Fifth streets, kept by Mrs. Blythe. It was no less than a same man de-liberately severing his tongue as close to the roots as possible, with a sharp, keen razor. The man's name was Wilson—at least that was the name he gave to the land-lady, who could not remember his initials. In an interview yesterday afternoon with a Times reporter, the landlady, Mrs. Blythe, Times reporter, the landiady, Mrs. Blythe, said, "This gentleman, for he was a gentleman in every sense of the word, came to my house about three weeks ago, and rented one of the cheapest rooms I have in the house. He was a man of medium build, dressed well, and was altogether of a very refined disposition. From his appearance I imagined he was or had been a priest, although he never discussed religion nor did I ever see any religious books in his room. He was promit in paying his rent, very gentlemanly in his demeanor, and very regular in his habits.

in his demeanor, and very regular in his habits.

Last Sunday morning, when the landlady went into Wilson's room for the purpose of cleaning up, she was horrified to find Wilson lying on the bed with blood running from his mouth. She at first thought the man had had a hemorrange, but on the floor she noticed a pool of blood. On a table near the bed was a very sharp razor, covered with blood. The landlady attempted to stop the bleeding, but not succeeding. Wilson motioned for a pencil and piece of paper, and wrote to send for a doctor. Dr. Cowies was immediately sent for, and while awaiting his arrival, the victim of his own rash folly, wrote again, begging the people who had gathered to aid him, not to bother themselves upon the arrival of the doctor.

He found that Wilson had placed a cord around his tongue as far back as he could reach and had then severed it with a razor, throwing the piece thus clit off down the water closet.

He refused an anæsthetic, and with a wonderful display of nerve allowed the doctor to stitch the severed member to getter. He absolutely refused to give any reason for his act, and appeared to be more worried about disturbing other people than

AGRICULTURAL NOTES.

W. H. Cook, cashier of the Granite Bank, this week purchased the twelve acres north of the Ladies' College, belonging to Mrs. W. N. Monroe, consideration $7000. About eight acres of this land is set to orange trees, which are just nicely coming into bearing.

The time is perhaps not far distant when the great American people will regard with as much disfavor the man who aids the boycott against a friend through fear as they do the original boycotters. The timidity that would aid a boycott is not the material which in the past has conserved the liberties of the republic, and the decline of the nation will date from the day when such feeling begins to rule the actions of the mass of the people.

REPORTS of the prevalence of diphtheria in Los Angeles have evidently been exaggerated. The total deaths from that disease last month, according to the official report of the health officer, were only 3. The total deaths for the month were 60, which is only a little over 14 per 1000. The present rainfall will undoubtedly improve the health of the city.

BRAZIL feels much gratified at the warm reception given to her warships in New York. Brazil may some day become a powerful republic. It has plenty of room to grow, for though larger than the United States, it-does not contain as many people as New York and Pennsylvania. Much of the interior of the country is still as thoroughly a terra incognita as parts of Central Africa.

WE referred yesterday to the enormous gross revenue of the Southern Pacific Company, which, for the past year, was over $47,000,000. There is at least one private firm in this country whose receipts are larger than this. Armour, the meat packer, does a busi-$65,000,000 a year, and pays $3,500,000 in wages. When we contemplate such figures, the anxiety of "ocean of peace," and the mists impecunious European nobles to marry drifted upon them, reinforcing the American girls is explained.

A VICTORY OF THE PEOPLE.

The battle just fought to a finish in this city, resulting in the reëlection Mayor Hazard by a handsome majority over both his opponents shows a cleancut victory for THE PEOPLE, as against factions-sometimes facetiously termed 2.25 the "long-hairs" and "short-hairs."

The result clearly shows that the people themselves hold the balance of power, and all the power, when they choose to exercise it. This is a most gratifying state of affairs. It would be unfortunate for this city to fall into the hands of either the wing known as the "truly good" and still more so to come under the domination of the lower element, or utterly bad. The conservative middle ground is where our city government stands today, and where it should

There is an element in every city composed of cranks and incapables, who have an insane itching to grasp the reins of power. Their intentions are unquestionably the best in the world, but there is a place not made with hands said to be paved with the bituminous rock of "good intentions," and we would undoubtedly reach that bourne very shortly, as a municipality,

On the other hand there is the vicious element, which hangs about the purlieus of every city, free from fixed occupations and rank with the desire to do evil. DR. KOCH'S LYMPH.

The attention of the civilized world which is a more or less consumptive world) is now concentrated upon the Berlin doctor who has astonished mankind by a discovery which, if genuine. may revolutionize medical ideas and medical practice in so far, as they relate to the treatment of the dread disease.

Dr. Paul Gibier, director of the New York Pasteur Institute, discusses in the North American Review the question as to what Dr. Koch's lymph may be. He says in part:

The liquid employed by Dr. Koch is per-haps only a concentrated solution of a special ptomaines, extracted from the cul-ture of the tuberculous bacilius. The ac-tion of ptomaine injected under the skin of tions of over 8000 copies each, containing these valuable articles, have already been circulated, but the demand for extra copies has been sufficient to justify this special issue, of which 10,000 more copies have already been ordered. Orders are now being received at the business office of The Times, and by mail, for copies of this special edition at the rate of $1.50 per 100, or $15 per 1000. Citizens are requested to send in orders, as no more valuable literature than these articles, descriptive of Southern California, can be disseminated. The price is a mere bagatelle.

We know that in the civilized world more than a million persons die annually in middie age, their rives being cut short by this terrible bacillus. From the results already obtained we may hope that all attacks of tuberculosis, pulmonary or other, can be checked, at least in the beginning.

The intense interest felt by mankind n this discovery is evidenced by the discussions going on and inquiries being made in all quarters of the civilzed globe, and especially by the concentration of progressive physicians by the hundreds and thousands in the city of Berlin, which has suddenly become the Mecca of the consumptive. Dr. Kock's remedy, whatever they may be, will be uncovered to the places, just outside the city limits. world before long.

THE SEIZURE OF AFRICA.

In the North American Review for December the Marquis of Lorne has a timely article on "The Partition of Africa," from which this passage is takeu:

Never, probably, in the history of the world was there such a rapid portioning-out of other men's goods; for, of course, the natives have not been represented at any of the conferences that have heen held in the distant capitals of the invading white men! distant capitals of the invading white men! Yet these natives are in number as the sands of the sea, and it is over no scattered series of bands, such as existed in America in the case of the Indians, that dominion is to be exercised, but over organized peoples and confederacies, some of whom could place 200,000 men in dusky array of battle. Truly it is a wonderful phenomenom—this pouncing of northern eagles and lions upon the abodes and reaims of the black man. And why is it? Oh, for their good of course! We shall stop their mauling andenslaving each other, and they ought to be grateful, and would be so if they only knew what unselfish intentions we one and all of us have!

Now, if the native sons of the Dark Continent could only get a hint from

Then the commander, "East-wind," gave the order, "Forward," and over the peaks of blue the dun clouds marched in solid phalanx, forming a line of battle across the pellucid depths of sky, shutting it out from the eyes of the dwellers in the lands of the sunny south.

When all the lines were solid and solidly supported, the great Commander-in-Chief, "who rides upon the storm," ordered the battle to begin. But the powder was smokeless, and the minnie balls were rain-drops which fell upon the defenseless world in humid showers.

For hours and hours the cloud-ranks poured their volleys into the green-uniformed lines of orchard with their buttons of orange, until the missiles from the sky became like the life-blood of men, sinking into the loamy soil and fattening the earth.

Soon from the world's great bosom of brown will spring the luscious grasses, the leaves take on an added lustre, the serried tree lines grow brighter and the world be gayer. For by the battles that are waged by Nature, as in the battles fought by man, the atmosphere seems swept of cobwebs and ugly things, so that when the rainbow of peace springs its arch across the sky, the world is better and life is sweeter for the conflict that has

WHAT about the project for utilizing the water in the Los Angeles river, above and below its bed, by means of a submerged dam, which was broached by a correspondent of THE TIMES few weeks ago? If we really have at our doors the power to drive the wheels of a score of factories, and irrigate thousands of acres of land it is surely criminal negligence not to try and make use of it. The proposition might at least be investigated. What have some of our experienced local engineers to say about it? We shall be pleased to print any practical communications on the subject.

Col. Markham, it is said, has a peculiar aversion to the reading of newspapers, and he is credited with having said that from the time he entered the context for the gubernatorial nomination until after the election he did not read a single paper of any description. Some of his friends once took upon themselves, while the campaign was at its height, to call his attention to certain criticisms of the press, and he answered them by relating the story of the two Irishmen just over, who for the fifst time, while traveling through the country, heard some frogs croaking in a pond. A conversation ensued, which resulted in an adjournment until tomorrow, when it is expected a compromise will be arranged which will lead to entirely new developments.

Clancy's motion involves the temporary retirement of Parnell, subject to certain conditions being exacted from Gladstone in connection with his promised home-rule scheme. Clancy's proposal has raised the hope among the Nationalists that a unanimous set-tlement will be effected. Liberal ciroles, however, do not share this hope, the attitude and front of the opposi-tion regarding Parnell being resolute and unyielding.

His wife told him that Hickey had tried to assault her sister. Bogard says that the three remained in the room until day-light, and then Hickey called him into light, and then Hickey called him into the winery and compelled him to drink a quart of wine by holding a pick-axe over his head. Hickey then demanded Bogard's pistol and started to the house to get it. Bogard also started for the house, and, arriving there before Hickey, he secured a Winchester, and ordered Hickey to halt several times. The latter paid no attention to him, and Bogard finally fired, killing him. Bogard says that he believes Hickey intended to kill him and assault the women.

WOMEN IN MEN'S CLUBS.

ome Swell New York and Boston Clubs Make Special Provision for Them. A veritable revolution is slowly taking lace in the realms of clubdom. one had suggested the possibility of ladies being received in aristocratic made clubs a few years ago he would have then considered a most promising candidate for Bedlam. Despite this fact, two of the most fashionable and exclusive clubs in New York city and one club of the same for the reception and chter sinment of the wives and daughters of their members; a third New York club will soon be added to the list of the clubs which have sanctioned the innovation, and other clubs are looking in that direction.

The revolution was started by the famous Somerset club, of Boston, than famous Somerset club, of Boston, than which there is no more exclusive and conservatine club organization in America. This club among clubs decided about eight years are 14 fit up a suite of rooms exclusively factor accommodation of ladies, and provided a private entrance to this suite of rooms, which are entirely isolated from other parts of the club. The wife or daughter off a member was permitted to introduce, other ladies as permitted to introduce other ladies as ner guests, the sole restriction being that she should in her own handwriting enter the names of her guests in a book kept for the purpose. Upon his election to the Lawyers' club a member fills out a blank with the names of the ladies of his family to whom he wishes to have the privileges of the club extended.

The names so entered are copied upon a register, and thereafter the ladies named by the member have the freedom of the subte of rooms set apart for the use of their sex. They can gain admit-tance to these rooms at any time during the day, can meet other ladies there by appointment, can lunch or dine there, or can entertain friends at luncheon if they so desire. sation which is so painful in the first days of a fast.

Signor Succi's theory is much the same as Tanner's, viz.: If you cannot get food, and think you must have it and yield to the longing for it, you will starve in two weeks or less, but if you resolutely make up your mind to do without it you can for six or seven weeks. To this the Signor adds: "An electric force generated by my will keeps me up. I absorb electricity just as you absorb oxygen. When fasting I can take any quantity of vegetable poison, and it does me no harm whatever. My brain grows much clearer as I fast and my will power stronger. It is a power

My brain grows much clearer as I fast and my will power stronger. It is a power like galvanism, and I discovered my possession of it first by accident. I have increased it by practice."

The appointed physicians attest that there is no doubt whatever of the reality of his fast and that he is adding a valuable contribution to science. He is by birth a Neapolitan, a short, spare man of dark complexion, with bright eyes and a nervous manner, but with strength of will apparent in every look and gesture.

A Magnetic Separator.

Among the numerous magnetic separators one of the most remarkable is that for the extraction of iron from the sea sand. It is stated that ordinary sea sand contains from 5 to 7 per cent. of iron, enough to give a large excess over cost of extraction. The machine consists of a cylinder, whose surface is composed of electro-magnets, revolving on the inside of an endless canvaz belt. The sand is fed to the belt, and a spray of water sepaclub set aside private dining rooms, a public dining 100m, a ladies' parlor, bouldoir and bathroom for the use of wives and daughters of its members, and subsequently placed them in charge

A Tomb Eighteen Hundred Years Old. On opening a tomb in the cemetery of Kertch a sarcophagus has been discovered between 1,500 and 1,800 years old, very well preserved, and containing a coffin in which was the head of a girl whose hair was quite uninjured. Re-mains of textile fabrics and some vases in clay and glass were found at the same time.—Odessa Messenger.

Some display vulgar brutality only, but others command attention because of puzzling and apparently unsolvable surroundings. Chief among these latter prominence must be given to what is known as the "Edgarcase."

So far as known the details of this asso far as known the details of this astonishing affair are as follows: One day, not long ago, a well dressed, fine looking man of middle age appeared at the counter of the Getty house, a hotel in Yonkers, just north of New York city, and registered as George Smith. He carried with him a value of costly make and paid for Save for an occasional glimpse as he passed through the corridors this was the last seen alive of the self styled George Smith.

On the afternoon of the second day of his sojourn at the Getty house a chambermaid found him lying dead on the lounge in his apartment. A medical man who was called in declared that the guest had committed suicide by taking morphine, and this opinion received support from a note discovered on the table in which the support of the su ed Mr. Smith apologized for the trouble to be caused by his demise.

PERRIN H. SUMNER. Apparently it was a clear case of self slaughter, which demanded only the for-mality of a coroner's inquest and the interment of the corpse in a pauper's grave for the man's value was missing, and he for the man's value was missing, and no had left no money or personal effects to defray the expenses of any other sort of funeral. However, just as the authorities were closing up the record of the case, satisfied that Smith was only another of Though the man will get well, he will the man will get weil, he will speech will probably always be more on the scene a certain Mr. Perrin H. Meanwhile the man who had died at the Getty house had been buried. Mr. Sumner, apparently assailed by doubts, secured the disinterment of the corpse and had it subjected to tests which in themselves seem horrible and unnecessary. The inanimate relic of humanity was attired in a suit of clothes and seated on a chair. Still suit of clothes and seated on a chair. Still claiming to be in doubt Mr. Sumner caused the gravediggers to straighten the decaying hims and display the body in a standing posture. He placed himself beside it, saw that the corpse was less in height than himself, and finally asserted that he had been mistaken in his original ent, and that the body was that of a

However, so many queer things have been brought out during the investigation of the tragedy that the police are still continuing an active and exhaustive inquiry, and one of these days it may become known who George Smith really

While the Edgar case must take rank as the most remarkable in modern mysteries of death, it has a companion piece in a mystery of life equally remarkable and almost as sensational.

Early one morning recently a well dressed man, while under the influence of liquor, got into an aitercation with a Chicago street car driver. The quarrel culminated in blows, and the passenger was hit on the head with a coupling pin. An intelligent policeman took him to a station housa, charged him with intoxication and locked him in one of the cells. Three hours later, a physician discovered a wound the size of him in one of the coils. Three hours later a physician discovered a wound the size of a half dollar behind the prisoner's left ear in the shape of a cavity full of blood clots and crushed brain matter. A large quantity of the latter had oozed out, and the doctors at the hospital to which the man was removed declared the case a hopeless has the three three declared the case a hopeless has the wayned. was removed declared the case a hopeless one. However, they dressed the wound and were rewarded by a surprise. After hovering for days between life and death the man regained a large share of his phys-ical strength. He could speak, but not It was found that while the speech cen-

At the annual meeting of the Board of Directors of the above institution it was resolved that in order to increase the usefulmessociated tract between them and the lingual centers had. For a time his mind bevidently ran on the last thing he remembered prior to the quarrel, and he kept demanding "one glass more." Then his intellect seemed to clear, and an attempt was made to ascertain his name. Apparently he was a Swede, and on this basis he was addressed as Ole and Hans. He evidently dissented to these appellations by shakes of the head, but when one of the attendants called him Alfred he nodded emphatically, and gave delighted assent to the further title of Swanson, so that it is now supposed title of Swanson, so that it is now supposed that his full name is Alfred Swanson. A recent visitor to his bedside says:

"Except when he is delirious he is a most exemplary patient, as he lies in his bed, smiling and talking away in his unintelligible manner. When asked a question he seems to think, and then his eyes brighten, and he tries his hardest to answer, evidently knowing what he wants to say, but utterly unable to express himself. He submits to the dressing of his wound with the utmost complacency, and never moves a muscle while the siphon is being placed in the cavity. When asked if it hurts he says 'No, sir,' and is as gentle as a child. He beys everything said to him, and lifts or lowers his head just as he is told. The only way that it can be told that he is feeling anything is in the altera-tion of his respiration and the quickening

He expressed the opinion that the farewell note found on the table was written by some other person, and that his former

A DRY TOWN WET.

J. Pluvius Makes His Debut in Pasadena.

"HUNGRY" WRITES A LETTER

Pertinent Remarks Bearing on Our Hotel Accommodations-Notes and Comment -- Person-

Pasadena has a good many things which every wide-a-wake, progressive town ought to have, but there are other important essentials that are lacking. Now that the question of street-lighting has been in a manner settled, the fire-alarm system ordered, an improvement in the surface drainage system fixed upon for next year and the Colorado street paving scheme pretty well under way, it might be well at San Diego is all right, but every tourist that visits San Diego don't care-to go there, nor need they, for the town itself can boast of at least three first-class hotels.

"As things are now, the visitor or man without a home must put up with a two-bit meal served in regulation style or plant himself on the top of a lofty stool in front of a lunch counte and order a la carte from a bill of fare not noted for its variety of viands.

"There is but one house in town where even first-class rooms can be obtained; and the best of these are occutained; and the best of these are occu-pled by permanent boarders, so that the transient tourist has to put up with a back room, entirely shut off from the cheery rays of the sun. There is nothing else for him to do. But this house has no dining-room running in connection with it; hence the occupants room in one place and find their meals wher-gyar else they can.

"This is indeed a pretty state of things for such a town as Pasadena claims to be. If we want to grow and prosper, we must provide accommodations that will favorably impress the stranger at the start. Otherwise they will pass us by without knowing what will pass us by without knowing what manner of place we have. HUNGRY."

with their usual promptitude, Colorado street donned its winter mantle in the way of a thick mass of mud, and the lately-arrived tenderfoot looked at the fast-falling drops and wondered whether Ananias himself didn't edit the guide book which spoke of California as the land of glorious climate, sunshine and flowers.

And yet there was general rejoicing that the much-needed moisture had come, and among those who rejoiced the rubber-boot and gossamer men and such merchants as deal in umbrellas were in the van.

An Aged Resident Joins the Majorit J. W. Giddings of North Pasadena died yesterday morning, after a long illness, in the 79th year of his age. Some weeks ago Mr. Giddings was injured by a runaway horse near Al-hambra, and his fatal illness dates back to this accident. He was a man widely known in this community, where he has lived for some time. He was much given to literary pursuits, and was a delightful conversationalist, besides possessing traits of character that endeared him to all who knew him. The funeral will take place at 1.90 class! this afternoon.

A YOUNG NUN-Within the convent grim and gray

And ivy grown,
She liveth on from day to day,
Life's monotone. She leaveth oft the ancient pile

And passeth by,
Yet I have never seen her smile,
Nor caught her eye.

Her hands are very white and small, And those who know Say that on Fever's brow they fall Like flakes of snow. They say her voice is soft and sweet

In Sorrow's ear,
Wooing the soul to Mary's feet
From doubt and fear. Ah, me! And yet her youthful face Clad though it he
In cold religion's saintly grace
Is fair to see.

Her eyes, so modestly cast down, So introspect, Could light a smile or arm a frown With dire effect!

Tis just such orbs that steadiest burn With passion's fire; Can all the tears in Virtue's urn Quite quench desire?

Her mouth is red, and shaped for bliss: It seems a loss
That it should only kiss and kiss

Oh, Little Nun! Thou art too fair!
It had sufficed If one less sensuously rare Had wed thy Christ.

The devil oft in form of saint Entraps the eyes; Thou art a soul without attaint In devil's guise!

The Decoration of Prayer Books. The prayer book that the Vanderbilts, the Astors and other families use for every day, that is to say every Sunday oo casion, costs about $50 each. Mrs. Anson Phelps Stokes has just ordered two $60 silver bound prayer books, and these will be given to her two daughters on the occasion of her silver wedding Prayer books are used now a great de for presents in society, and particularly for wedding presents. The really cor-rect thing, it may be mentioned, is a small prayer book bound in white morod co, with elaborate silver trimmings. The resulting ornamentation is very rich and very handsome. The designs are either flowers or allegorical figures that have a quaint and mediæval character. The work is open work that shows the cover of the book, and this supplies a very effective groundwork. In some cases, however, the book is completely cased in silver and the silver is very artistically worked. There is still a slight demand for ivory covers, but the demand is so slight it is scarcely worth mentioning. The covers of the prayer book are embellished with a silver cross if the morocco is retained on one side and the bride's initials on the other, The books themselves are generally of English make and what is known as the Oxford edition. The type is beautiful and the binding is in the highest style known to the art.

In the original covering the Bible or prayer book is about the cheapest book of its quality that can be found. its manipulation by a fashionable jeweler it is about the dearest. A pretty book mark usually accompanies the prayer book composed of three white ribbons. They are marked with a heart, a cross and an anchor, signifying, of course, faith, hope and charity.—New York World.

Death from Consumption - Mrs Stetson Talks on the Crosssaddle Movement-

Thomas P. Condon, a young man who had been in Pasadena but a few days, died suddenly at 1 o'clock yesterday morning. He arrived in town Saturday morning last and went to the Crown Villa, on North Raymond avenue, where a friend of his from the East was stopping. He was in the last stages of consumption, complicated with other chronic diseases. The house was filled with guests, but owing to the young man's critical con-dition a bed was fitted up in the office

"If ever there was a custom devoid of any faintest shadow of reason or necessity it is this, the balancing edgenecessity it is this, the balancing edge-wise on one side of a horse to the strain and injury alike of the beast beneath and the lady above.

"What, ride like a man?" cries a hor-rified fair one. Why not? Don't you walk like a man, moving one foot be-fore the other? We do not expect ladies to waggle sidelong like perambulating mermaids on shore; way should we ex-pect them to pretend they are unipeds on horseback?

on horseback?

"But the day of such folly is passing. The 'divided skirt' has come and come to stay; the cross-saddle movement is spreading splendidly in all the great cities. Why should not Fasadena be as brave as New York? Pasadena ladies are brave and intelligent are not they? Let us see a number of them adopt the new fashion and ber of them adopt the new fashion and remembered for their common sense and courage. We all have an opportunity to see these much-talked-of divided skirts at the Jenness Miller lecture Saturday and we ought all to

ASTHMA.

It is a common error to suppose every disease which is attended by oppressed breathing to be Asibma or Pathisic. We have shortness of breath in Consumption and Preumonia, just as we do in Asibma, only that in these diseases it is always present, whereas in Asthma it occurs in paroxysms. Asthma is a spasmodic disease of the lungs, which manifests itself in periodic attacks or "ns." It comes on suddenly and is attended with great difficulty of breathing while it lasts, but when the attacks over the patient breather simost as well as Dryal Asthma are name-given to different forms of this disease. Emphysema is another and more investment of Asthma, while Hay Fever or Rose Cold is a peculiar variety of Asthma which occurs at a certain season differs somewhat from the others in symptoms, but practically these distinctions are of very little value. It does not mater to the patient which form of asthma be has, since his suffering is the same in all. In one case, the value if the coughs up clear water with a white froth on the surface, we say he has Humoral Asthma. In Nervous Asthma there is very little expectoration of any kind. Hay Fever always begins as a corjing cold in the head, or influenza, and a clear water with a white froth on the surface, we say he has Humoral Asthma. In Nervous Asthma there is very little expectoration of any kind. Hay Fever always begins as a crying cold in the head, or influenza, and a clear water runs from the nose and the eyes of the continues so in the in erral between the fits, while the shortness of breath is increased on the slightest exertion.

It is a foolise conceit of many peopel to believe that if they have asthma they cannot exertion.

It is a foolish conceit of many peopel to believe that if they have sathma they cannot get consumition. The truth is the very opposite. They are more liable to fall into tonsumption because they have the AsthmaAnother idea is that the Asthma itself is not a dangerous disease, and yet the bublished bills of mortality for this city prove to all who read them that great numbers lose their lives every year by this foul destroyer of our homes. without courage and perseverance nothing is curable. But with these, aided by proper and skil ful treatment, Asthma can be cured even after the lungs are extensively diseased. Persons desiring treatment by this system of practice can use the remedies at home as well as at our office, and which will cause no incongenience or 'indrance from business whatever. Every case of Asthma is curable. Eastern visitors and invalids will be wise in being cured before they return home. Those who desire to consult me in regard to their cases had better call at the office for an examination, but if impossible to visit the office tersonally can write for list of questions and circular, both of which will be sent free of charge.
